

Automate your trading. Then prove it works.

Software that runs your strategy, guards your account while it does, and tests honestly whether the strategy is worth running at all.

Trade

Watches your markets on a schedule, picks the strategy that suits each one, and places the order.

Protect

Nine checks stand between a signal and your money — all enforced on the server, none bypassable.

Prove

Tests thousands of strategy combinations against real costs, on data they were never chosen against.

It watches the markets so you don't have to Set it up once. TradeBuzz checks your instruments on a schedule, decides, and acts — with as much or as little automation as you're comfortable with.

AUTOMATIC

Hands-off trading

Checks every instrument on your list on a timer, then places the order with your broker. No screen-watching, no missed setups overnight.

SPEED

Fast mode

A scalping engine for short, quick moves on one-minute bars — paired with a cost check that refuses trades too small to be worth taking.

INTELLIGENCE

Only act when it's sure

The AI states its confidence on every call. You set the minimum, so its half-hearted ideas never reach your account.

SMART ROUTING

The right strategy for the market

Works out whether a market is trending or drifting sideways, and switches between trend-following and mean-reversion accordingly.

INTELLIGENCE

AI in the loop, on your terms

Choose how much say the AI has: none at all, a second opinion that can veto a trade, or full decision-making from your live data.

DISCOVERY

Market scanner

Sweeps hundreds of markets for setups you would never find by hand — and can trade them automatically if you allow it.

Nine checks stand between a signal and your money

Every one of them can stop a trade. None can be switched off from a browser — they run on the server, where they cannot be bypassed.

ALWAYS ON

Exits held at your broker

Stop-loss and take-profit are attached to the order itself, so they still work if the software is offline, updating, or your laptop is shut.

PEAK GUARD

Giving back gains stops it too

Measured from the day's high, not its open — so an account that climbs then slides is caught, instead of being shrugged off as still up.

CAPS

Limits on size and count

Cap what any single trade may be worth, how many positions can be open at once, and how many trades may be placed in a day.

DAILY LIMIT

A bad day stops the bot

If your account falls past your daily limit, trading halts and stays halted until you personally restart it. It never resumes on its own.

COST CHECK

No trade that can't pay for itself

In fast mode, the expected move is weighed against the real spread. Anything that doesn't clear it by your chosen margin is refused.

PRACTICE

Dry Run

Everything runs exactly as it would live — signals, decisions, records — with no real orders placed. Practise for as long as you like.

The part most trading tools leave out

Anyone can show you a strategy that looked good on past data. TradeBuzz checks whether it still looks good on data it has never seen.

Test enough ideas and one always looks brilliant. TradeBuzz tells you when that's all it is.

It splits your history

Each idea is scored on the first part of your data, then scored again on the part it never saw. Only what survives both counts.

It ignores thin evidence

Anything with too few trades to be meaningful is excluded from the verdict, however good it looks.

It charges real costs

Every simulated trade pays your broker's actual spread — not the frictionless version that flatters every idea.

It shows you what luck alone would give

Alongside the winners, it prints how many winners pure chance would have produced — so a big number can't fool you.

Start free. Nothing expires quietly.

Free is a real tool rather than a demo: full backtesting, the market scanner, live charts and the AI assistant. The bot runs in Dry Run, so you can practise for as long as you like.

tradebuzz.co.uk

TradeBuzz is trading software, not financial advice, and does not promise profits. Trading carries risk and you can lose money, including more than you deposit on leveraged products. Practise in Dry Run first, and start small when you go live.

Every tool here is built to help you decide well and limit what a poor decision costs. None can make a losing strategy profitable — and TradeBuzz will tell you plainly when a strategy isn't working. That honesty is the point: a tool that only ever agrees with you is worth less than one that argues.
